This is a really interesting guide on Wine, Honey and Chocolate. It includes a lot of illustrations, detailed information and step by step processes. I learned a lot from this guide the basic knowledge to make Wine, Chocolate and Honey and the illustrations helped a lot. It also includes a table of contents to quickly navigate through pages. I definitely learned a lot from the processing stand point and learned how to keep them in an optimal temperature and the maintenance of these products. Overall, a great guide and I learned a lot.

I have always loved chocolate and because I am fond of it, I was curious on how it these are made. Yes, I actually bumped into the right book. It really taught me more about chocolates and not just that, I knew more about wines too! This is quite an informative read.

Very informing book! Chocolate is the confectionery match to wine. Perhaps this is because the process of making chocolate is very similar to wine. Both cocoa beans and wine are fermented with the very same type of yeast. No wonder there are so many wine and chocolate lovers! Really worth recommending!
